Thirteenth Sunday in Ordinary Time – June 27, 2010

Because of sin, sickness and death have entered the world, but are overcome through the resurrection of Jesus. He hears the cry of those in need, healing the sick and raising the dead to life. He made himself poor that we might become rich.

On Friday, high school students from churches around the Diocese of Grand Rapids will gather to be encouraged through music and presentations. Saturday we'll let God work through us as we break into work teams and go out into the city of Muskegon to serve by helping people with yard work, doing light home repairs, serving food pantries or food kitchens, visiting nursing homes, etc...When we get back we will share our stories and then experience the power of God through a life changing time of worship. Sunday we'll be sent forth from our closing Mass to go and to continue to serve the Lord! Our closing Mass is open for families to attend!

The Ministry of "Respecting God's Creation"

Green Tip of the Week

What's the single most important thing that Catholics can do to protect the environment?

In a recent US Catholic interview Keith Waner, OFM, PhD (Environmental Studies) of Santa Clara University answers this provocative question:

"Practice contemplative prayer. The fundamental problem is that we are alienated from God, ourselves, and the earth, and it's through prayer that we can come to understand where we belong. It's our apathy, our consumerism, and our materialism that distract us from what's most important, and it's in that context of prayerful reflection upon our relationship to God that we can grow and accept our responsibility."

Is Catholicism really a nature-friendly religion?

"Creation has been very important throughout the history of Catholic thought and teaching, but the current emphasis of both Pope Benedict XVI and his predecessor, Pope John Paul II, on creation comes as a surprise to many Catholics. Somehow we've allowed our thinking about creation to be more influenced by our culture than by our Catholic tradition. To love the earth is a sacred responsibility, but this idea has been lost. It's not just Catholicism that has lost its awareness of the importance of creation. This has been part of a broad erosion across religions, at least in the West."
