WHAT NOT TO BRING TO THE BEACH!

Forms of ocean, lake, and beach pollution include visible trash, especially plastics. During the last international coastal cleanup organized by nonprofit Ocean Conservancy, nearly 7 million pounds of debris—more than 40 percent of it plastic—were collected by volunteers. This included 1.3 million plastic bags, nearly 1 million food containers and wrappers, close to 940,000 caps and lids, roughly 710,000 plastic bottles, 500,000 straws and stirrers, and just over 440,000 plastic utensils. By many expert accounts, plastic debris sailing the oceans is responsible for the death of more than a million seabirds and 100,000 mammals and sea turtles annually. Plastic pieces are often found in the stomachs of dead ocean-going beasts. Not only is trash and food waste on the beach an eyesore that can end up suffocating sea life, it attracts birds and wildlife that end up defecating on the sand.

The simple solution: Instead of bottled drinks and disposable plates and cutlery, use a re-usable thermos, and pack in re-usable dishes, knives, forks, and spoons—at the beach and for all other outings, picnics, and barbecues. During the coastal cleanup, volunteers also found more than 3.2 million cigarette butts and filters. If you have to smoke, don't leave evidence. (excerpted from

Do You Have Time To Pray This Summer? Prayer Is... Any Where You Are.

Prayer doesn't take place only when you are sitting still and quiet with your hands folded, or when you are down on your knees. Prayer is anytime you are talking with God, listening to God, or just being aware of God's presence around you. You can find new and different ways to pray this summer that will allow you to stay close to God but still enjoy all the wonderful things summer brings...
